HOLLIDAYBURG, Pa., Sept. 15.—That her husband, Frank Berger, a resident of Canoe Creek, spent all of his money issuing and writing a commentary on the Bible and let his wife and children go hungry, was the charge brought by Mrs. Berger in court here.

Berger, some two years ago, became obsessed with the idea that he was called to write commentaries, and his wife alleges that he spent more than $2,000 issuing his works. He will have to do something more remunerative, the court ordered, and contribute to the support of his family.

DELAWARE PROPHETS SAY WINTER WILL BE MILD

GEORGETOWN, Del., Sept. 15.—Sussex county weather prophets say that the Pennsylvanians who have predicted a severe winter are all wrong, for the winter will be a mild one.

They base their predictions that there are few acorns, corn tassels are thin and that there are few cedar berries, all proofs, according to their deductions, that nature has not provided bountifully for birds or squirrels, and that, therefore there will be a mild winter.
